REAL DEMOCRATS CONFIDENT.

EXPECT TO HAVE THEIR TICKET IN SECOND COLUMN.

Reported That Leedy Has Directed the Olive Branch of Peace to Be Proffered, but It Is Sure to Be Rejected-Kansas

City, Kas., News.

The troubles of the Democrats and Popu lists were aired to some extent before the contest board yesterday. While the contest of the regular Democrats, which was to enjoin the fusionists from having their ticket placed on the official ballot under a Democratic caption, was dismissed without any evidence being introduced, yet this action does not have any particular significance, as the board simply held that it did not have jurisdiction to open up the case when the nomination papers appeared to be valid and regular. The board decided that it was created simply to pass upon the certificates of nomination and that if any irregularities existed relief should be sought in the courts. It is understood an action will be brought within the next three days to enjoin the county clerk from placing the fusion ticket on the ballot as a Democratic ticket. Then the case will be heard on its merits. In the afternoon the contest of Jack Doyle against the Populist fusion ticket was called and argued. The attorneys for the fusion crowd attempted to shut out this contest on the same grounds, but a entirely different point was raised in this lissue. The nomination papers of the Populists are not in conformity with the law. The law states positively that the nomination papers shall be signed by the chairtion papers shall be signed by the chair-man and secretary of the convention at which the nominations are made. then the nominations are made. The papers of the Populists were signed to the chairman and James Cotter, who eted as assistant secretary of the conven-on. H. G. Randall, the regularly elected retary of the convention, did not sign e papers at all. This was the principal the papers at all. This was the principal point argued by the Pops who are oppos-ing the fusion ticket. This point is thought to be sufficient to open the case when many other irregularities will be proven and may prevent the fusion ticket from being placed on the ballot.

The board took the matter under advise-

The board took the matter under advisement and will hand down its decision at 1 o'clock to-morrow. The board is composed of County Clerk Daniels, County Attorney Miller and J. P. O'Neill, clerk of the district court. O'Neill is a Populist and owes his election to fusion in this county. The regular Democrats are confident that they will be given the second column on the hallot under the Democratic head, but they would like to shut out the fusionists altogether. It was learned positively yesterday that Governor Leedy's visit to this city Thursday was for no other purpose than to get the warriors to cease their hostilities. It is understood that the olive branch will be offered the anti-fusionists to-morrow. However, it is stated upon this township at the election next month. It is too late for them to change the ticket now, but they propose to repudiate the ticket at the polls. Several Quindaro citizens stated yesterday that they would make affidavits that the township convention was participated in by just three men. Mrs. Strait retained attorneys and proposes to light the case. In the answer filed by her attorneys it is claimed that Mrs. Strait loved her hashond, and she denied every material allegation contained in the pelition of the plaintiff. She also claimed that she believes that her hashand would see the error of his ways and return to her, and asks the court not to grant his prayer.

The contention in the fusion ranks is not confined to this city. Several prominent fusionist residents of Quindaro township, among whom was Mr. Stephens, of Vance, were in the city yesterday, and according to their statements, three administration fusionists met a few days ago in a blackmith shop in Quindaro and proceeded to nominate a township ticket behind closed doors. The three would-be bosses of Quindaro township, Taylor Harris, J. C. Klamm, the justice of the peace who overrules the supreme court without hesitiancy, and George Riley assembled in the village blacksmith shop and arranged a township tecket to suit themselves.

Mrs. Strait is at present in New York with her parents, and, according to her statement, she is wholly without support, and is entirely dependent upon her relatives for a livelihood. It was on these grounds that the court allowed her immediate relief. The case will come up for trial at the present term of the district court.

County Campaign to Be a Tame One, With Candidates on a Still Hunt

-Other News Items. The county campaign this fall promise to be anything but a noisy one, and it is new highly probable that no meetings will be held by either party. It will be a still bunt by the candidates for votes, and each will be allowed to fight his battle pretty much as he pleases. This is from no lack of interest in county affairs, but rather from the fact that the approaching reunion and carnival will detract from nearly everything of a political nature. This is realized by the candidates, and at the meeting of the Republican county central committee yesterday afternoon the matter was left discretionary with the chairman, with the understanding that Republicans would hold no meetings if the Democrats did not. The Democratic committee was in session at the same time, and E. E. Murphy appeared as their representative. He stated that it was the desire of his committee that no meetings be held, and it was so decided. JUDGE FOSTER SAYS THAT JUDGE THAYER MUST DECIDE IT.

SPECIAL MASTER GETS $3,000.

PRECEDENT ESTABLISHED IN RE-GARD TO STENOGRAPHERS' FEES,

Judge Foster Severe in His Commen on Santa Fe Court Expenses-Shippers to Get a Rebate if the Law Is Finally Upheld.

Topeka, Kas., Oct. 9 .- (Special.) The atterneys on each side in the stock yards litigation appeared in the federal court this morning and notified Judge Foster that they had entered into a stipulation to try the case for a final decree on October 18. They also said that it had been agreed to have Judge Thayer, of the circuit court of appeals, sit with Judge Pos-ter at the trial. The stipulation also con-tained an agreement that the attorney general would not attempt to enforce the law before the case is finally determined, The attorney general would not consent to let the records appear that he permitted the restraining order to remain in force against him, but he gave his word that he would not bring any proceedings against the company. Judge Horton said that it had been agreed to submit the case for final hearng without taking additional evidence. Judge Foster replied that if that were the case there was not much use in his wasting his time in sitting through the case He had decided the case on the evidence already given, and nothing had arisen to him to change his mind. Thayer will have to wrestle with the thing himself," said the judge. "Some of the counsel in the Santa Fe case recently got little shaky for fear I could not wade out in that case, and Judge Thayer was called in to rescue me, which he did."

This was the case where an application was made to throw the Santa Fe into the hands of a receiver for stock jobbing pur-poses. Judge Thayer sat with Judge Foster and concurred in Judge Foster's de-cision. Attorney Hite was attorney for the complainant in the Santa Fe case and Foster's decision backed up by Judge Thayother side of the fence in the stock yard:

"I hope Judge Thaver's rescue in this case will not be on the same order as it was in the Santa Fe case," jocularly re-

"Well, it might," replied Judge Foster, Judge Horton said this step had been agreed upon on account of the Nebraska case. Judge Munger ruled that the Omaha Stock Yards Company could not be regu-lated by the legislature, while Judge Foster ruled that the Kansas City stock yards could. In order to settle both cases it was deemed advisable for Judge Thayer to sit with Judge Foster in the final hearing of the Kansas case.

Judge Foster then said that some steps should be taken so that if the law wer finally upheld the shippers would be able to prove up their claims for overcharges without any difficulty, and get their money back. It was explained to the court that the books of the company furnished a com-back. It was explained to the court that the books of the company furnished a complete record of each transaction and the judge said that would do.

The question as to the compensation of the special master and stenographer was then taken up. The stenographer put in a bill of $10 per diem and 20 cents per folio. The bill amounted to about $1,300. Judge Foster said that he would set as a precedent in his court a charge of $10 per diem. dent in his court a charge of $10 per diem and 10 cents per folio. The attorneys on each side said that the stenographer in this case had worked day and night and was entitled to extra pay. Judge Foster said he would allow him from 5 to 6 cents additional per folio for that reason. He said it was his desire to keep the expenses of litigation within the limit of litigants' power to pay; he wanted to keep the expense of litigation in his court about the same a it is in the state courts.

Special Master Clark was asked what he thought his compensation should be. He said he did not know what price to fix. The attorney general told him to charge $5,000. Attorney Hite, for the stock yards com pany, thought that was entirely too much He suggested $2,000. Clark's report was against the stock yards company, and its attorneys did not feel very kindly toward him. Judge Foster sald that he had no precedent to follow; this was an important ease, and the master had worked hard. The Santa Fe master, he said, got $15,000 for a few hours' work, which was outrageous but then the attorneys got $100,000 out of it, and nobody could blame the master for getting what he did. "It was a grand grab all the way through," he said. Judge Fos-ter thought that Special Master Clark had earned at least $3,000, and all of his exearned at least $5,000, and all of his ex-penses, and he made an order giving him that amount. There were no other orders taken in the case, and it will rest now until October 18, when the final hearing will be commenced before Judges Thayer and Fos-

JULIUS LEVY, Proprietor. gree shall remain in the penitentiary one year, at least, and then shall not be hung year, at least, and then same not be hand, until the governor signs the death warrant. "This law should be changed," said the governor. "It should be so amended as to take the responsibility of signing death warrants out of the governor's hands. The law should be direct in regard to this matter. It should provide for the execution of a first degree murderer, just the same as the first degree murderer, just the same as the laws provide for the punishment of crim-inals of other classes. The governor, of course, should be clothed with power to inals of other classes.

There are about fifty persons in the pententiary sentenced to be hanged, but who are permitted to live because no governor of Kansas has signed their death warrants, and the state of the sentence of th are permitted to live because no governor of Kansas has signed their death warrants. Governor Leedy says he will not sign their warrants, as that was the duty of preceding governors, but he intimates that he will sign the warrants for the execution of all murderers sentenced to hang during his term of office. At least, he says he proposes to consider the matter.

He was asked direct if he proposed to sign the death warrants for the Stafflebacks.

"I can't say as to that at present," said he. "I have a whole year to make up my mind."

The governor stands alone among the Populist state officials in the advocacy of capital punishment. All of the rest are opposed to it, and say it is direct violation of the teachings of true Populism. Supreme Court Reporter Clemens is particularly severe in his criticism of the governor's position. Bob Semple says that not one Populist in 10,000 in Kansas favors hanging.

banks should make a special effort to dis-pose of all holdings of real estate, other than bank building, while there is a de-mand for same; not that it may not be profitable to hold same, but for the reasons that a bank is not a real estate company and real estate not a proper asset for a bank. Business prudence suggests that a bank should convert the real estate of hank should convert the real estate of which it becomes possessed into cash or other good assets whenever opportunity presents itself, even at a sacrifice. The next ninety days will present a better opportunity for cleaning up slow paper and reducing objectionable excess loans than any period since 1892. May I not express the hope that January 1, 1888, will find every bank under the control of this department with a clean balance sheet, showing nothing but proper and lawful assets?"

THE APPEAL DISMISSED.

Kansas City, Kas., Jointists Virtually
Win a Victory in the Supreme Court.

Topeka, Kas., Oct. 9.—(Special.) The supreme court to-day dismissed the appeals in the Kansas City, Kas., jointist cases, This means that that city will be deprived of over $5,000 in revenue in the shape of fines against the joints. The jointist appealed about 100 cases from the police court to the district court last year and Judge Alden dismissed the appeals because the appeal bonds were defective.
